FUND MANAGER'S REVIEW, OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

United States Treasury (UST) yields declined in February as investors weighed the prospect of Trump's trade policies on global growth. The 25% tariff on imports from Canada and Mexico will be enforced on March 4th, in addition to a doubling of the 10% universal tariff charged on imports from China. Trump also plans to impose 25% tariffs on autos, semiconductors, and pharmaceutical as early as April 2nd. January's Personal Consumption Expenditure (PCE) price index rose 2.5%, easing slightly from 2.6% in December 2024, in line with markets' expectations. Meanwhile, according to FOMC's January's meeting minutes, the Federal Reserve (Fed) officials agreed that inflation would need to come off further before they could consider cutting interest rates again. The 10-year UST yield declined 34 basis points (bps) to 4.24%. Local government bonds ended only slightly firmer with the 10-year Malaysian Government Securities (MGS) and Government Investment Issues (GII) both closed 1bp lower at 3.79% and 3.81% respectively.

Malaysia's economy grew 5% year-on-year in Q4 2024, surpassing initial estimates of 4.8% but slowing from an upwardly revised 5.4% in the previous quarter. Annual inflation rate stood at 1.7% in January, holding steady for the second straight month and matching market forecasts. Core inflation increased 1.8% from 1.6% in December 2024.

We expect major central banks to continue cutting interest rates over the next 12 months although Bank Negara Malaysia is expected to keep the Overnight Policy Rate steady in the near term. Given this outlook, we remain constructive on local sukuk market.
