FUND MANAGER'S REVIEW

The FBMS Index was down by 4.26% due to the decline in plantation and healthcare sectors as well as Axiata Group Bhd which posted weaker results in May. The fund's performance on the other hand had decreased by 7.01% on 1-month basis as the fund's holdings in property and selective mid cap stocks suffered heavy sell down due to short-selling pressure in the market resulting from higher interest rate impact.

Moving forward, Malaysia's full re-opening from 1 April onwards is seen as a strong boost to domestic spending as tourist receipts improve for the country. While the global financial markets continue to be negatively affected by the war and sanctions on Russia by the west, sentiment on Bursa remains uncertain due to the US Fed interest rate movement and weaker Ringgit performance against the US Dollar. The fund plans to reduce its weight in property related stocks and divert its allocation to consumer and technology stocks which are poised for a rebound in 2023 partly benefiting from weaker ringgit situation due to their export-oriented business model.
